Goldin girl

Topshop on Oxford Street is the place to get pieces by the rising stars of London fashion at affordable prices. Currently in stock are some amazingly slimming dresses from Jonathan Saunders and geometric-print, super-fine knitwear from Louise Goldin. We love this Goldin mindress. £50; 0845 121 4519

CHEAP TRICK

We'd all love a Burberry trench one day. For now, though, we're more than happy to settle for this classic beige mac from Tu at Sainsbury's. £30; 0800 636262

The London fashion mecca THAT IS MATCHES IS OPENING A FOURTH BRANCH AT THE END OF FEBRUARY, ON MARYLEBONE HIGH STREET. Look out for Angelo Katsapis (the ex-Armani Privé designer you originally read about in the 'Stella' 2008 Hot List). His collection will be one of the first on the rails. Dresses start at £540 (020 7221 0255)

T-shirts have once again become the favoured way to make a statement about everything from your politics to your love life.

T-SHIRT PATISSERIE

on Brick Lane, London E1, will whip up a T-shirt in the style and colour of your choice, with any message you please, before packaging it in a traditional pâtisserie box complete with a delicious chocolate or vanilla cupcake. £20; 020 8981 1655

SOLE MATES

Shirley Sum and Cynthia Fortune Rainey met nine years ago at Cordwainers College in London. Sum went on to work for Jimmy Choo, before reuniting with Fortune Rainey to form Sumfortune. We love this season's clean, grown-up styles, such as the Nude D, a leg-lengthening peach court in calf and python. £250, from the Cross (020 7727 6760)
